

Best of Career Related Blogs and Websites

Looking for some really great career and job search advice? This guide will show you a few career related blogs that we find to be especially helpful, interesting and even entertaining.

Salary.com Salary Wizard

Use this salary wizard to see what you are worth.

http://swz.salary.com/salarywizard/layoutscripts/swzl_newsearch.asp

The Confidence Center

Great articles on how to build confidence and success.

<http://www.confidencecenter.com/articles.htm>

Penelope Trunk's Brazen Careerist Blog

"Work meets life" is the theme of this career blog. You'll find helpful ways to package and promote yourself to find the perfect job. Other topics include leadership, learning how to take advice, negotiating, networking, and many more. Penelope's career advice has appeared in more than 200 newspapers and magazines including Time Magazine, San Francisco Chronicle and Boston Globe.

The Work Buzz by CareerBuilder.com

The Work Buzz is a community where job seekers can find out what "the buzz" is on career-related topics. You'll find some humorous articles, videos and other resources to help you find a career passion.

On Careers: Outside Voices

This blog is part of the US News and World Report website. Its offbeat blogs such as, "Can You Learn to Love Coworkers From Hell?", "How to Be a Good Audience to Creativity," and "Going Home for Lunch: A Recipe for Stress?" will stimulate your thinking!

Quintessential Career Blog

Quintessential Careers publishes articles on a wide range of college, career, and job-hunting related topics--for all types of job seekers. The blog includes career and job search news, trends, and scoops for job seekers, compiled by the staff of Quintessential Careers.

Occupational Adventure

The goal of this blog written by author and speaker Curt Rosengren is to focus on personal fulfillment rather than monetary gain. It's refreshing for those looking to be inspired to start a new career, or even re-ignite an existing one.

Today's Workplace Blog

According to Forbes.com, this blog contains legal and political information relating to employee rights and fairness in the workplace. Serious, weighty issues such as social security, minimum wage and health care.

Please Note >> Millenium Staffing does not claim or imply any ownership of content on links or in articles viewed. The information contained in articles and links is informational only, and are not an endorsement of the opinions, products, or services presented. Millenium Staffing is not responsible for the legality or accuracy of information on these sites, or for any costs incurred while using these sites.